FALL IN LOVE WITH CUBANA

The eclectic and unique fashion scene in London has greatly been epitomized by the scattering of boutiques throughout this stylish city. Belfast has recently joined these ranks with the opening of its own stand-alone boutique, the effervescent Cubana. As the only boutique of its kind in an already sophisticated, cultured quarter of Belfast; Stranmillis.

Cubana has firmly establish itself as a must-visit for budding fashionistas. In this vibrant store you will find all the elements to put together a truly stunning outfit. Every girl remembers the first time they fell in love, and in the same way they will remember their first visit to Cubana. From couture fashion ranges, vintage clutch bags, designer handbags, stylish-belts and must have boots you will be able to capture a style that reflects you.

The concept behind Cubana is the brain child of bonafide style expert Deirdre Delahunt who has used her eight years of experience in the fashion industry to stock the boutique with scintillating collections from around the world. Deirdre, who has an undiluted passion for fashion, is a constant presence in the store. With her first hand knowledge of the clothes she buys, Deirdre is the ideal advisor on how they should be worn.

At Cubana you will find a range of individual collections from Spain, Italy, France, London and Turkey. However, these ranges can be merged to complement one another. From a stand alone article to part of an outfit, Deirdre can expertly show you how to adapt a quirky piece of clothing into a stunning ensemble.

The boutique, which has created a relaxing and inviting ambience, prides itself on providing a friendly one to one service. At Cubana you will be guided right through the initial outfit to the accessories. Deirdre emphasised: "Accessories can make an outfit." With the superb selection available at Cubana, you will have no need to go anywhere else for those essential finishing touches from eclectic jewellery to show-stopping handbags.

One of the main philosophies of the store is that style lovers the world around should be able to look good and feel great with their style. Because of this, the collections at Cubana range in price and cater for every stylish purse. Having only been open a brief time, Cubana is already finding its niche in the market. With an already mixed clientele, this individual boutique is definitely the place for those who love to stand out from the crowd.
